Generally, children under the age of 15 are not permitted to attend work parties without consent from the work party organiser.

Members 65 years and over who wish to attend a work party need to speak with the lodge manager prior to applying for a work party. Unfortunately due to liability issues they will be restricted in what they are allowed to do.

The Levy for those electing not to attend a work party is $77. Unfortunately, in recent years a number of members have failed to attend work parties they have booked. This affects both the catering for the weekend and other members who would have liked to attend. A penalty fee of $154, double the Work Party Levy, has been implemented by the committee for non-attendance without adequate reason.
